How we use your personal information

Reviewed 23 March 2022

This statement explains how The Cambridge Theological Federation (“the CTF”, “we” and “our”) handles and uses information we collect about those who apply to study through the CTF (“you” and “your”).

The CTF offers degrees validated by the University of Cambridge, Anglia Ruskin University and Durham University. In this statement “the University” refers to whichever of these institutions validates the degree programme you have been admitted to.

Most CTF students are also members of one of the member institutions of the CTF (a “House”).

Each University and House is a separate legal entity to the CTF and have their own statements about your personal information and their procedures. They in turn share information with a number of other bodies for statutory and other purposes.

When changes are made to this statement, we will publish the updated version on our website and notify you by other communications channels as we deem appropriate or necessary.

The controller for your personal information is the Cambridge Theological Federation, The Bounds, Westminster College, Lady Margaret Road, Cambridge, England, CB3 0BJ. The person responsible for data protection at the time of issue, and the person who is responsible for monitoring compliance with relevant legislation in relation to the protection of personal information is the Chief Operating Officer, Alastair Oatey, coo@thefed.cam.ac.uk.

1. What is ‘personal information’?

‘Personal information’ means any information which relates to or identifies you as an individual.

2. Who will process my personal information?

The information provided here applies to the use, sharing and disclosure of your personal information by the CTF and the Houses as part of the admissions process. Please note that the CTF and each of the Houses are separate legal entities for these purposes. The CTF and the individual Houses work together closely and share the personal information you provide in your application in accordance with agreed protocols. The Houses assessing your application may provide you with additional statements about how they will use, share and disclose your personal information as you progress through your application.

3. What personal information will be processed?

The CTF and/or, where relevant, the Houses, will use the details you provide on your application form, together with additional details provided by any referee and recorded following any interview process.

4. What is the purpose and legal basis of the processing?

The CTF and the Houses will process the personal information provided on your application and the other information referred to above for the purposes of identifying you, processing your application, verifying the information provided, deciding whether to offer you a place for the course you have applied for, and communicating that outcome (together with any feedback).

We may also use or disclose the information provided for the following statutory or public interest purposes:

- To prevent or detect fraud.

- For equal opportunities monitoring.
- To help us to make reasonable adjustments for any disability, as requested by you.
- To allow us to consider any future accommodation requirements.
- To provide statutory returns required by applicable legislation.

We consider the processing of your personal information for the above purposes to be either necessary for us to take steps with a view to creating a contractual relationship with you (e.g. to assess your application to study with us), or necessary for compliance with a legal obligation (e.g. equal opportunities monitoring). We require you to provide us with the information we ask for during the application process in order to assess your application properly except where its supply is marked as optional. Admissions decisions are not automated.

5. Who will my personal information be shared with?

As well as circulating your application and related materials to the appropriate staff at the CTF and the Houses, we will share your personal information for the above purposes as relevant and necessary with:
